Russia And The League Of Nations

Soviet Russia having applied for admission into the League of Nations, the burning topic at Geneva and in many of the European capitals is whether that application should be approved or rejected. Russia has the powerful support of Great Britain, France and Italy as well as of some other countries, but is opposed by a number of the smaller nations, including, so it is reported, Belgium, Poland and Greece, while Switzerland, the home of the League, is said to be sharply divided on the question. The London Times has expressed the belief that Canada and Ireland will line up with the opposition.

Unless unanimity can be reached through advance negotiations and conferences, the forthcoming meeting of the General Assembly of the League will be the scene of an animated, possibly bitter, debate, with the further possibility of the failure of Russia's application because an unanimous decision cannot be reached. It looks like a knotty problem to solve, yet most people in this country would be inclined to regard it as a very simple one.

It is not necessary to recite the reasons which led to the establishment of the League of Nations, nor to set forth its aims and objectives. Its very name implies that it was the intention of the founders that it should include not some nations, but all nations. As long as certain nations remain outside its membership, the League is not as strong as it should be. It is weakened by the absence of even one nation. In the past one of its great weaknesses has resulted from the refusal of the United States to join, plus Russia's absence, and the early stipulation that barred Germany. Now, that Russia is willing to come in, why refuse to permit it?

The only answer forthcoming is that the Government of Russia is Communist. Premier Tsaldaris of Greece is reported as saying that he will vote against Russia's election to membership on the ground that it would sanction international Communism. This may be offered as an excuse, but surely it is not a valid and legitimate reason for exclusion.

Italy is a member of the League, but that does not constitute sanction of international Fascism by the other nations of the world. Other nations may set up or bow to dictatorships or other forms of autocratic government, some might turn socialist, others become more and more democratic, and others again return to absolute monarchies. Such developments are the right and privilege of the people of the nations concerned, but they do not constitute reasons why they should be treated as outlaws among the nations of the world.

The people of any country have the sole right to determine their own form of government, that which in their opinion is best suited to their particular conditions or state of development. This is one of the fundamental principles underlying the structure of the League of Nations, namely, self-determination of peoples and nations. Failure to recognize it, and give effect to it, would quickly destroy the usefulness of the League and ultimately destroy the League itself as an organization.

There are times when, following internal upheavals and revolutions, a nation may lose the diplomatic recognition of other nations, but this is largely because the fact is not clearly established as to which of the contending groups really enjoys the support of the people in such country and can therefore be safely recognized as "the Government". But when a Government once becomes established, recognition of it by other nations as a rule quickly follows. The means by which it came into being, its principles and policies are a matter for its own people to approve or disapprove, and recognition by other nations does not necessarily imply approval.

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Russia) has an established form of government; has had for years. It is recognized by most of the other nations. Agreeably or otherwise, it is accepted by the Russian people. What reason is there, then, why Russia should not be recognized by the nations acting jointly through the League of Nations and full membership in that body be granted to it? It is silly to argue that the granting of such membership in the League is to sanction international Communism. One might as well argue that to now admit the United States would be to give international sanction to all the policies and implications of Roosevelt's "New Deal", or in the case of Germany to place the stamp of approval on Hitler and his Nazi policies and programme.

Regardless of what one may think of Russian Socialism and the policies and methods of the Soviet Government, and quite opposed as one may be to the introduction of similar policies and methods into their own country, the people the world over should wish Russia well. It is far better for the world that Russia should succeed and not fail in its experiment, and certainly it would be unchristian and cruel towards the Russian people to desire failure. Even though the Russian system may not be desired nor prove beneficial elsewhere, it may suit Russia in its present state of development.

The best way to promote international understanding and goodwill, and thus promote the cause of peace, is for the nations to get together—the closer the better. And the best way yet devised for such getting-together is in the General Assembly of the League of Nations. Therefore, let every nation in who is willing to join, and do everything possible to bring in those which presently are averse to joining.

Prompt treatment with Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in such cases relieves the pains, checks the looseness of the bowels, and thus does away with the suffering, the weakness, and oftentimes the collapse associated with attacks of this kind.

It does this by checking the too frequent and irritating stools, settling the stomach, and bracing up the weakened system, thus making it a remedy for the treatment of nervous conditions of both young and old.

Famed Racing Husky Dead

St. Godard Mourns Loss Of Nine-Years-Old Team Leader

Emil St. Godard, world champion dog racer, mourns the death of his gallant leader Toby, one of the greatest dogs that ever stepped in harness.

Toby died at Veterinarian, New Hampshire. The veteran of race across the continent suddenly suffered stomach trouble, and although three doctors worked on him they failed to save his life.

Toby was nine years old. He was part husky and part greyhound, a combination of staying power and speed. He was raised in the St. Godard kennels and won 28 long distance classics.

Toby led the St. Godard string in six of the gruelling 200-mile derbies between The Pas and Flin Flon. He was also well known to sportsmen in Ottawa, Quebec and New Hampshire.

"It's tough all right," said Emil, when friends heard the news. "Toby was a wonderful dog. I intended to leave here in August to start training again in New Hampshire. I will have to train a new lead. I have several of Toby's pups at the ranch and expect to work one of them in Toby's place."

DOCTOR SAID SHE MUST REDUCE

Fat A Danger to Her Heart

Overweight is not merely a matter of appearance—it affects health, too. Excess fat robs the system of energy—the internal organs grow large and slow down under the burden—and undue strain is put on the heart. Here is an instance. A woman writes:

"I have been treated by specialists, who tried to reduce my weight, as I suffered with heart attacks. But no matter what they gave me, nothing would reduce me. Since taking Kruschen, everyone wherever I go exclaims about how much flesh I have lost. I took it at first for rheumatism, and it has done me a world of good, as well as greatly reducing my weight. Before Christmas I weighed 224 lbs. Now I am considerably less—in fact, a coat I had worn last year I have had to take to be altered before I was able to wear it again. I have not really made any difference with the diet, there is only Kruschen to thank!"

(Mrs. M. S.)

The specialists in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off that fat waste and poisons that encumber the system. Then, a little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely.

Alberta In The Lead

Province Has Highest Marriage Rate

In Canada:
A bridegroom of 84 with a bride of 18; 18 brides under 16; three mothers who have borne their third child when but 16 years old; two men who married when they were more than 80 years old are some of the highlights of a report compiled from the vital statistics records of Alberta.

The province has the highest marriage rate in the Dominion and the highest birthrate west of Quebec.

Englishmen are still the greatest progenitors, followed by Ukrainians and Germans. Alberta does not follow the majority, for November proved the popular month in which to be married.

Alberta boys apparently do not care to assume marital duties as readily as do the girls, for while there were only 76 grooms under the age of 21, no less than 1,416 girls of a total of 5,564 became brides before they reached their majority.

Blind Man Climbs Mountain

Portland Publisher Aided By Dog Makes Long Ascent

Although he is totally blind, Ed. G. Robbins, publisher of a Portland weekly newspaper, has realized his long ambition of climbing the snow-capped summit of Mt. Hood. He was aided by his faithful police dog, "Tribia", in making the long ascent.

Asked what he wanted to climb the peaks for, the blind editor said, "For the experience, man, for the experience!"

Rarest Metal On Earth

Newly Discovered Mineral Is Worth $1,000,000 An Ounce

The rarest metal on earth—worth more than $1,000,000 an ounce—was exhibited before the American Chemistry Society by an assistant chemistry professor who announced the first isolation of proactinium.

A. V. Brosse brought from the University of Chicago one-tenth of a gram of the metal, which he succeeded in isolating after years of work.

Proactinium is "squeezed" out of pitchblende. The latter ore is reportedly plentiful in the Great Bear Lake and other northern districts of the Canadian west.

Hard and silvery, the proactinium clung to a fine, one-inch thread of tungsten like drops of mercury. Its rays are more penetrating than radium. Its scientific and medical possibilities are wide. It emits the same kind of "Alpha, Beta and Gamma" rays as radium, and Dr. Brosse said its "Gamma" rays, which are the ones used in medicine, will penetrate lead more deeply than those of radium. Its "Alpha" rays, which are fast-travelling particles, fly farther than similar particles from radium.

But proactinium does not give off nearly as many of its rays as any of the three types. It has a "half-life" of 32,000 years, which means that in that period it will radiate away half of its metallic substance. Radium, in contrast, has a "half-life" of 1,600 years.

The difference in rate promises to make possible medical experiments with the new metal that are too dangerous with the faster-acting radium. This tenth of a gram of a thread is all the proactinium which could be squeezed chemically out of a ton of ore. It cost $5,000. At the same rate an ounce will cost $1,250,000.

Oldest United States Town

Orabi, Arizona, Inhabited Since 1200 States Scientist

Fortunately for Santa Fe, Florida, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, the oldest town in the United States has no chamber of commerce or advertising genius to dispute their claims. For Dr. Paul S. Martin, archaeologist at the Field Museum of Natural History, asserted that the Hopi Indian settlement of Orabi in the Arizona desert is the oldest continuously inhabited community in the land.

While St. Augustine was settled about 1565 and Santa Fe dates back to about 1537, Orabi has been the home town of generations of Hopis since 1200 A.D. or earlier. Dr. Martin convinced himself of the antiquity of the Orabi pueblo by archaeological studies there.

Japan Grows Own Wheat

Country Now Able To Supply Its Own Requirements

The Japanese government's five-year wheat growing project, inaugurated in 1932 by the ministry of agriculture and forestry to enable the country to supply its own requirements of the cereal, has achieved its objective two years ahead of time.

Estimates submitted at a conference in Tokyo of the chief officials of the wheat encouragement bureau in the various prefectures showed the wheat crop in Japan this year will yield 44,849,000 bushels, while the estimated consumption of the country is 45,000,000 bushels.

Since the domestic crop is now practically equal to consumption, the officials have decided to relax their efforts to increase production and to concentrate their attention on effecting improvement in quality.

Although bread by no means supplants rice, which remains the staple cereal, it has been popular as a food for several years and army regulations prescribe mixing wheat with rice before boiling it for soldiers' rations. The wheat constituents counteract the tendency of polished rice alone to cause beriberi (kakke as it is called in Japanese).

Many households consequently now mix some wheat with the rice before boiling it for the family table with resultant good effects on the general health.

Due to the world rise in wheat prices, Japanese flour mills have been falling back recently chiefly on domestic wheat. It is likely that the wheat will continue to import a fair quantity of Canadian and Australian wheat of qualities not yet produced there, for mixing purposes, for some time at least.

The Art Of Making Tea

Method To Use In Order To Obtain The Full Delicious Flavor

No beverage in the world is as universally popular as tea. It is used in nearly every civilized country and this delightful drink not only refreshes and invigorates the mind and body, but also serves as the medium by which people meet in a spirit of friendship and understanding the world over.

If the following directions (which were supplied by "Salada" Tea) are followed, each cup will yield the full delicious flavour that makes tea so enjoyable.

1. Use a tea of fine quality.
 2. Use fresh water always.
 3. Use an earthenware tea-pot.
- Scald out the pot to make it warm, place in it a level teaspoon of tea for every cup desired, and one for the pot. Add fresh boiling water. Allow to steep about five minutes and stir slightly before serving.

Tea made according to the above rules will be fragrant, delicious and completely satisfying.

The Peace River country, the last great agricultural frontier of the Western Canadian plains, exceeds the combined areas of Scotland, Ireland, and England; is over six times the size of Belgium, five times that of Denmark, one-third the extent of France; and slightly larger than the republic of Uruguay. The Peace River country exceeds the combined areas of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware, and is larger than the combined six New England States.

Is Densely Populated

The most densely populated small area in the world is 112th street between First and Second avenues, New York. Miss Marguerite Wales, social worker, said. The block is only 700 feet long, but 2,700 people make it their home. Seventy per cent of them, Miss Wales said, are on relief.

Annual Purchases Of Railways Run Into Millions Of Pounds

This distinction belongs to British railways, whose annual purchases include 50,000 different articles. Over 1,000 miles of track are laid or renewed yearly, for which 210,000 tons of steel rails, 4,000,000 sleepers, and 2,000,000 cubic yards of ballast must be bought. The 14,000,000 tons of coal consumed by 21,000 locomotives, steamships and hotels keeps a large section of the mining industry regularly employed; 3,800,000 yards of cloth are purchased from British mills for uniforms, 21,000,000 bricks, 62,000 tons of oil, 9,000 tons of paint and varnish, and a further 298,000 tons of iron and steel—all from British firms.

The sum of £16,800,000 is expended on the renewal and maintenance of permanent way and works, and £19,900,000 on locomotives, carriages and wagons.

Hint For Egg-Packers

When packing eggs for shipment a good practice is to brush the hand lightly over each filler as it is packed to make sure that no eggs are protruding above the top of the filler. Such eggs almost invariably will break in transit. Before packing a case, examine the bottom and sides. If any nails are loose or have fallen out, replace them.

CHAPTER LX

A preeminent summons from Mr. Hoyt on the day after Gus Matson's visit, took Camilla to his office in a state of trepidation. Had something unusual happened? Was he angry with her for her presumption and deception? Had his pleasant attitude at the broadcasting station been only a masked act, for the sake of his pride? It would be like him, perhaps.

She approached the inner office almost with a feeling that the man whom she was about to meet was a stranger to her. But his greeting was cordial enough—even affectionate. Her fears vanished.

"I've been wanting to talk to you my dear. You gave me the surprise of my life the other day."

"Was it very wrong of me to deceive you, dad?" she appealed wistfully.

His eyes twinkled as she never had seen them before. "I'm mighty glad you did. You proved to me what I always suspected that you could do. Even when your mother opposed your ambition to take up commercial art, I held a secret conviction that you could make good. With your determination, I could see that any encouragement from me would be superfluous, and only antagonize your mother more." He exchanged with her that look which she remembered so well from her childhood, a glance of understanding which made words useless.

"Nothing could have pleased me more than the way you have developed. I will admit that I never should have dreamed of placing my business promotion into your inexperienced hands, much as I believed in you. So I engaged efficiency experts and paid a large fee to an advertising agency to handle the campaign. And, after all, it fell right into your inexperienced hands, and you pulled us to victory. It only goes to show that the wisest of us haven't so much judgment, altogether, no matter how big we think we are. Well—that is just a little of life's irony."

"You would be worse than irony if I hadn't made good," she reminded him with a timid smile.

"But you did," he dismissed the matter with a wave of his hand, and demanded abruptly, "But what about Peter? Are you going to let your marriage fall, now that you have succeeded in your career?"

"Oh, no!" Camilla denied. "You know why I did not go abroad with Peter. We are living according to our original contract, of course."

"What good will your contract be a year from now?"

"Why—Peter loves me, dad!"

"I don't doubt it. I know he does. But when people love each other and are married, they should be together at least for most of the time I tell you, Camilla, I feel it my duty to advise you from a man's standpoint. Your place is with Peter in Paris, or wherever he is."

"But he can't take care of me and he won't accept my help. He is terribly proud."

"Of course. But what about Avis Werth?" he released another bomb. "Do you know that she is on the same boat with Peter?"

"Yes, but—"

"That is no coincidence," he interrupted, sternly. "Camilla, I may as well confess that I've kept a pretty close watch over your private affairs since you left us. Your happiness is my deepest concern. I did not like your marriage plans when I first learned about them, and this separation has made them preposterous. I tell you I won't stand by and see your life ruined. It will be, if you lose Peter. I know what he means to you—you may not think so," his voice lowered and he seemed to be projected for a moment into a distant past, "but I, too, know what love can mean. But you will lose Peter, if you permit this thing to go on—at least, you will lose the Peter and the love with which you began so confidently."

"Oh, I do wish so much to be with Peter," she confessed. "But he won't have me, under the circumstances."

"Is there any objection to your living apart in Paris, and seeing each other often, as you did here?"

"I suppose not. But I can't leave my work and live there on nothing."

"Listen to me, my dear. If necessary, there always could be someone found to fill your place in your work, but not in Peter's life. And that is not necessary. It will be a simple matter to find someone to take over your radio programs, even someone whose voice so resembles yours that the public never would recognize a substitute, if that is more advisable. You have started the programs personally. Now, there is no reason why you can't pack up the rest of your work and take it right over to Paris with you. That will solve the problem of present existence. You can provide for yourself very well, but I also make the requirement that you and Peter are to take a comfortable studio, large enough to accommodate the work and privacy and temperaments of two geniuses," he smiled slyly, "and live together. You will discover what happiness is, then."

"But Peter won't live that way when I have the advantage over him. He hasn't even a start in Paris yet."

"As for Peter, I have managed some other things which may mollify his wounded pride," Hoyt continued slyly. "I had arranged for a large replica of his exhibit group to be given a prominent place in this city, but he never will know who promoted the movement. You will guard the secret for his sake. It is not philanthropy—I was only given the hand of destiny for starting the movement."

"As for your future, my dear child, you are my sole heir to the fortune which you have salvaged. However, that is not a new idea. I always expected to bequeath the bulk of my estate to you, but I purposely insisted when your mother took you that I should not acknowledge you as an heir, so that you would be forced to prove yourself. I had confidence that you would, which increased as you grew older. That you accomplished it through your own efforts to reclaim my business, is another one of those inexplicable twists of fate. But I advise you, that I should not twinkle my eyes."

"That you had better not tell your proud Peter you are an heiress. Let him be surprised when the time comes, and he has made good for himself."

The tears were falling, unheeded, down Camilla's face while he talked; and when she left, a more perfect bond of paternal affection and daughterly respect was not to be found anywhere. Camilla Hoyt had entered into her rightful heritage, by character and effort.

The pandemonium of a steamer landing at Cherbourg was in full swing. Passengers who had been waiting with varying degrees of waning patience to land, were released in a single file down the gangplank. Peter followed Avis, who turned to him often with a smile or a word of confidence.

"Have you got everything?" she asked him, with the air of an habitual traveler prompting her charge.

"Guess so," his reply was laconic. But he felt as if he had left something behind.

Blacksmith, Who Is Said To Have Helped Jesse James, Is Dead In Ontario

George Kydd, 92, resident of Port Arthur for many years and well known as a blacksmith and farmer throughout Ontario and mid-western states, is dead. He is generally credited with being the blacksmith who put shoes backwards on Jesse James' horse in order to confuse a posse trailing the bandit.

He was born in Jallalabad, India, in 1842, the son of Sgt.-Major John Kydd, of Calcutta, and served for a time with his father's regiment, the 23rd Welsh Fusiliers. He was discharged from the army in 1863, came to the United States and lived in Pennsylvania before moving to Ontario.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

MEMORY'S FRAGRANCE

Sometimes I complain that I cannot forget.

I would thrust from my mind all old memories; yet

What were life without laughter of dear, vanished days

And the sunlight of love which once brightened its ways?

All the past was not fashioned of music and song;

There was sorrow, sometime; there were trouble and wrong;

Yet the haze of time have so mellowed those hours

That the whole when recalled, had the fragrance of flowers.

And that fragrance, adrift down life's ago-shadowed years,

Is a talisman, barring the folly of fears,

Sometimes I have fancied forgetting is best.

Yet the memory of dawn may still brighten the West.

thing very valuable aboard the steamship, something which he could not go back to recover. It was not there. It had escaped somewhere into the void of lost ideals and illusions. He felt older, hurt, broken; but he faced the new future resolutely.

Following Avis with eyes that were almost unseeing he jostled against her as she stopped abruptly in front of him in her descent. He looked up inquiringly, to follow her eyes which were riveted upon something she saw on the pier. His own eyes stared as if he were seeing a mirage.

Surely, it could not be true. That couldn't be Camilla standing down there, waving at him, her deep black eyes so prominent in the little white face. But it was! His heart leaped and pounded. All the old emotion, the ecstatic rapture of the springtime, surged back into his empty being and filled him with remorse. How could he ever have doubted her? Even from here, he could look into her shining eyes and know that she never could have betrayed him. And Avis had said she did. His smile leaped down to meet hers, and his hand waved wildly. He almost tripped over Avis in his eagerness to reach her, oblivious of everything else in the world. They clung to each other desperately. Ten days had been an eternity of separation.

"But how—" he wondered, when he could speak.

"I arrived yesterday. I flew to New York, and came on the fastest boat that sails the seven seas," breathlessly, "but I'll tell you all about it, later. Let me see you through the customs, first."

"Darling, are you real?" he squeezed her arm.

"Real enough to remember the French I need right now."

"Then you are—you!" he admitted with delight.

Avis was so shocked and bewildered that all she wanted to do was escape. Neither of those two united lovers had even remembered her existence. She hurried away to lose herself in the weaving throngs. "Well, that is—that!" she observed wryly to herself. "You can stir a man's emotions, but you can't make him love you like that!"

NORTH AMERICAN WHEAT SITUATION
(Total Annual Average Wheat Production 1200 Million Bushels)

Due to attempts to maintain the price of wheat in 1929 and 1930, the United States and Canada piled up large unneeded wheat surpluses which have persisted to quite recent months. Last year's unfavorable harvests decreased the surplus in the United States by one hundred million bushels. This present year's disastrous crops of wheat and coarse grains in both the U.S.A., Canada and other countries, coupled with an increasing world demand for wheat for bread purposes, and to a certain extent for animal feeding, are expected to bring burdensome surpluses down almost to a normal amount, i.e., the "Carry-over" existing before 1928. If this proves to be correct then normal prices for wheat, in relationship to other commodities, should prevail.

Rambling Remarks

There is a larger turnover in cars this year than last year, states a report just arrived in the mails. Yes, we have noticed that in most all the papers we receive.

Will Rogers says that a woman may put on a bathing suit and not go in swimming; she may put on a riding habit and not go riding; but when she puts on a wedding gown, she means business.

It is reported that the old age pension age limit in Canada is to be reduced from 70 to 65 years. That's a break for some of us heading that way.

The attorney general of Ontario has announced that his department is going to lay off the recent sweepstakes winner who won a prize of $30,000 recently, and "let him hold all the celebration he likes without fear of interference." Another point for the Liberal government.

Canada is still a young man's country. The newly appointed governor of the Bank of Canada is only 37 years old. But he's married, Gurells.

Wenstob Meets Battling
Tracey In Title Bout

Ed. Wenstob and Battling Tracey of Winnipeg are billed to meet in a ten round boxing contest at Edmonton on Friday evening, September 21, in the New Empire theatre. Wenstob, who disposed of Jules Verquin, champion of France, in three rounds some three weeks ago, is expected to have more opposition from the Winnipeg man. On the same card are Geo. Scott, also of Viking, who meets Gordon Williams, of Edmonton, over the eight round tape. Williams and Scott boxed here last year and the match was one of the best ever seen here. Quite a number of fans from this district have signified their intention of being at the ringside next Friday evening to see the bouts—and give the local boys their undivided support. If Wenstob wins from Tracey, he is in line for bigger and better bouts. Here's hoping!

The International Yacht Race is proving very exciting. The first try on Saturday saw the Yankee boat beat at the finish but it was declared no race, on account of time limit of 5 1/2 hours. ELECTION PROBABLE
LATE IN 1935

Ottawa, Sept. 17. — Lack of anything in the way of professional activity among government departments, coupled with unofficial information circulating about Ottawa, has led to the general belief that the idea of a fall session has been abandoned.

There is every evidence, however, that regardless of the outcome of the five federal by-elections to be decided in Ontario a week from today, the government will again meet parliament, probably early in the new year.

An apparently reasonable forecast is that parliament will be called about the middle of January with government legislation, small in volume, ready for early presentation, and an early budget showing a substantial surplus, some reduction in taxation, and restoration of pay cuts in the civil service.

Unemployment insurance, advanced legislation designed to place a large measure of central control upon industry to remedy evils disclosed before the Stevens committee on price spreads and wages, and possibly amendments to the British North America Act will be laid before the members.

When this has been done, it is forecast, and the inevitable strenuous agitation for dissolution and an appeal to the people is set up by the opposition, the government will oblige. In view of reports that the Liberal opposition will block passage of supply with every weapon at its disposal, it is believed dissolution will come in April and late in the summer the people will express their opinion at the polls.

SPORT PEEPS

Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver regained his title on Monday night by defeating Barney Ross. Ross in their last fight removed the crown from the Canadian, and this affair simply put the gold back on the head where it belonged. Before the fight Ross talked a lot, promising to knock out his opponent in short order. But big talk makes big fight but sometimes results in a big victory—for the other fellow.

The International Yacht Race is proving very exciting. The first try on Saturday saw the Yankee boat beat at the finish but it was declared no race, on account of time limit of 5 1/2 hours. Monday brought a win for the British boat. As that was the first time since 1920 that such success has come to the Challenger for the American Cup, great jubilation followed over all the world, also in the United States.

A total of over 1250 home runs have been made so far this season on the American and National Leagues. This appears to be an amazing number of circuit clouts. The honors are divided fairly between the two leagues, for the American has but 26 more than the National. Gehrig leads with some 46.

The World Series between these two leagues opens October 3rd at the "American" grounds. That means Detroit, says the Auto City, but the Yankees are struggling to get back in the race and win the pennant. In both leagues the outcome is so uncertain, the contest is worth watching. We predict the Series will be between Detroit and the Giants. Your guess?

At Grand Forks, N. D., the referee Knauf warned the negro fighter, Ace of Spades, against stalling. The negro turned on the official and began to swing at him. Knauf knew his stuff, and soon had the negro yelling "enuff", for he floored him. He scored a knockout, but he politely raised the hand of Hetherington, indicating the glory was his. Officials sometimes have to demand respect.

That fat boy, Lawson Little, won the Amateur Golf title of the U. S. just as convincingly as he did the British. He must be good to do that. The best golfers in the world, who are not professional, take a try at these titles. To be on top in both contests is most unusual.

Human nature is strange, says a careful observer, we find the white women folks spending a lot of money in beauty parlors trying to get permanent kinks and curls in their hair while the colored ladies are spending a lot of money trying to get rid of their permanent kinks and curls.

According to an incident in a neighboring town good intentions do not always turn out right. A citizen there desiring not to disturb his wife at a late hour left his shoes on the front porch and a pup carried them across the street and left them on the porch of a pretty widow.

Heard at the poker party: "What a lot of friends we lose through their borrowing money from us." "Yes, it's touch and go with most of them."

"Didn't you promise at the altar to love, honor and obey me?" asked a newlywed of his bride at the first family row. "Goodness knows what I promised," she replied, "I was busy listening to hear what you promised."

Heard at the poker party: "Aren't you drinking a little more than usual?" "Yes, on account of a cold in the head." "Cold in the head?" "Yes, you see my wife has a cold in her head and can't smell a blamed thing."

Many a man and woman are married and live happily ever after securing a divorce, says a careful observer.

"My husband was very angry when I bought this evening gown," said a local lady to another at the social. "Can you imagine anybody getting angry over a little thing like that?" the other replied.

It is reported that an editor in a southern Alberta town has moved his press against the door and is having his meals sent in at the window since he let this item get into the society column of his paper: "Mrs. Catt's popularity is evidenced by her mangy friends in this vicinity."

People that you don't care very much about—those who lead you into trouble and then find a way to slip out of it themselves.

The old fashioned woman who used to boast about how many glasses of jelly she could get out of a gallon of blackberries, has a daughter who likes to brag about how many miles she can get out of a gallon of gas, says a careful observer.

"I suppose your daughter plays golf," asked one Kinsella lady of another at the social. "Yes, she's going around in less and less every week," the other replied. "I suppose she is," was the reply, "but I was talking about golf."

"What makes you think your best girl doesn't understand baseball," asked one fellow of another at Edmonton. "Well, the other day I took her to a game and she fell in love with the umpire," he replied.

Telling Them
At last the worm has turned and a defeated candidate has had the nerve to tell the voters just where they got off at when they turn a good man down. A defeated candidate in a county in South Dakota published the following in his home town newspaper:

"To the voters: When you nominated Henry Munks for county clerk you made your bed. Now you can struggle in it for all I care. You had opportunity to nominate and elect a smart man who would have been on the job at all times, looking after your interests. Instead, you picked an ignoramus who wears checkered shirts and parts his hair in the middle. If I had known how dumb the bunch of you really are I would never have asked for your support. Now that I know that I am above the common herd and I still have my self-respect. You may like this or you may not, as you choose, but you know what I think of all of you who did not vote for me."

That judicious advertising of a business will prove a profitable investment.

Newspaper advertising is welcome relief to most shoppers, as it tells them where and what to buy.

Up-to-date and dependable stores fully realize their responsibilities.

Customers expect service.

They expect reasonable prices.

They expect quality.

Newspaper advertising does much to create a friendly feeling between a store and its customers and benefits both.

News From The Capital

By T. B. Windross

The first story from the "inside" of the Bedaux trans-British Columbia tractor expedition, was told in the city this week by a member of the expedition's company, Walter Thompson, aged 25, a pack-rider who was injured and brought out to Edmonton, for medical care at the Misericordia hospital.

Thompson says the tractors have all been abandoned and the party is now blazing a path through the trackless wilds with 56 horses to carry the remaining 15 members of the party to Telegraph Creek. He says two of the five tractors were wrecked in the 100-foot fall over a cut bank into six feet of water, one was swept away by a torrent in a river and the other two have become so broken and useless as to be abandoned. Now horses are doing the freighting and taking the party onward through the wilderness in the mountains.

Thus the horse triumphs over the machine.

Building a spur track from the west end of the high level bridge at Lethbridge, reported in a despatch to Edmonton, indicates that the C.P.R. natural resources department has decided to open up several thousand acres of coal land it owns across the Old Man river from Lethbridge. This development will mean added employment and will help to benefit the whole of the province.

Canadian bacon is facing a great opportunity in foreign markets if Canadian producers will improve quality and quantity produced, declares A. Giesner, manager of the Edmonton packing firm of Giesner's Limited, who has just returned to the city after a three-months' trip to Europe, where he investigated the markets for Canadian meats in the British Isles and on the continent.

The goal of quality for the British market, must be the production of a hog with lean shoulders, long back and large ham, with the Yorkshire variety favored. He said Britain is ready to absorb, under the terms of the Ottawa agreements, all the bacon that Canada can produce.

Canadian bacon exports, he stated, can be increased by 75 per cent or more if Canadian farmers will produce the hogs.

The first snow of the fall came to Edmonton this week. It blanketed the city early in the morning Tuesday and gave the landscape a wintry appearance. Somehow the people do not appreciate the poem, beginning, "Snow, snow, beautiful snow, falling so gently wherever I go," in September. Saturday the weather became warmer again, and for the first time for three nights the mercury did not register freezing. But the Saskatchewan river valley is taking on its fall aspect, with the frost painting the leaves of the trees bright green and yellow—green and gold, the Alberta University colors.

Claims numbering 250 have been staked in the new gold area at Lake Athabasca, according to a report. The new strike lays on the north shore of the lake, 140 miles east of Fort Chipewyan, and the geological formation is highly promising, according to W. B. Airth, Toronto mining man who arrived from the north by aeroplane on Friday.

Some of the larger outfits plan to carry on development work there during the coming winter. A big advantage to its development is its accessibility, the present freight rate by water being only $20 a ton from Beaverlodge point to Watons.

The delegation that waited on the premier and members of the provincial government Friday, to request the opening of the Edmonton Normal School again, were promised sympathetic consideration of the request by Premier Reid and members of the Executive Council. The delegation numbering 75 were met in the legislative chamber by the government.

The Iron Creek Mutual Telephone Co. was organized at a meeting held at the farm residence of Mrs. M. Harris, ten miles south-west of town, last Wednesday evening. The meeting was addressed by Mr. W. F. Kenaley, of the government telephone department, and Mr. Michon, of Wainwright.

After considerable discussion it was decided to form a company and take over what is known as rural lines number 11, 12 and 13, at a cost of $950, payable one-quarter cash and the balance in two years. The company starts out with 41 subscribers and the initial cost to each is $23.75. The charge to connect up with the Viking central is 40¢ per month for day service only, and 60¢ per month for continuous service, plus operating expenses of the line. It is estimated that rural telephone service may be had for $1.25 to $1.50 per month under this arrangement.

It is with regret that we chronicle the death of William Smith, son of Mrs. James Pickering, Viking, who passed away in the Central Alberta Sanatorium, Calgary, on Sunday, 9th September.

The deceased was well known throughout the Viking district, having lived here practically all his life. His birth, however, took place in Nanaimo, B. C., in January, 1906, from whence he moved to Viking with his parents when he was but a little over a year old.

W. McAtey and son Bob attended a conference of Ford dealers at Calgary on Tuesday, where they met the general manager of the Ford Co.

A party of geologists and experts from the government, the Northwestern Utilities, and the Hudson's Bay Mining and Oil Co., were testing the gas wells in this field last week.

Mrs. Dodds took her little granddaughter, Mary Jane Skinner, to Edmonton on Tuesday. Little Mary Jane recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and is recovering nicely.

A party of ladies who enjoyed a motor trip to Edmonton on Saturday included Mesdames W. H. Collier, Fitzmaurice, W. McAtey, Darrah, Horton, Green, Bissell, Graham, Purvis, and Thunell.

Citizens who wish to have their names put on the voters' list should read the official notice to that effect appearing in this week's issue.

Steve Rutar sued Fairview school district for the cost of drilling a well. As the water was not fit for drinking purposes in accordance with the agreement, the action was dismissed. H. C. MacDonald, K. C., appeared for the plaintiff, and T. E. White for the defendants.

In the action, Viking municipal hospital district versus A. Voy, Mr. Voy claimed that the debt was contracted by his wife and that he was not responsible for payment. The court held that inasmuch as the hospital was operated for the benefit of the public, Mr. Voy should pay the account, but assessed no costs against him. C. G. Purvis acted for the hospital district, and S. Lefsrud for Mr. Voy.

Chas. Hollar sued A. Hammer for wages and was given judgment for the portion of the account and costs. S. Lefsrud acted for the plaintiff and C. G. Purvis for the defendant.

Rex vs. Metro Mysik—Mysik was found guilty of having improper relations with a young girl and was fined $50.00 or three months in jail. A. H. Gibson, K. C., acted for the Crown, and W. J. Mustard, K. C., of Edmonton, for the defense.

A heavy rain that beat a steady drizzle Tuesday night, Tuesday morning and continued all day. Several rigs in the district had prepared to commence work on Tuesday morning but will now be delayed from a week to ten days.

THE PROPER CARE OF
YOUR AUTOMOBILE
Refinishing the Top

THE danger of neglecting the factory varnish is of a different type, and they expand and contract at different ratios. When one is applied over the other they pull against each other and are apt to cause rather than prevent weathering. If the top is old and badly weathered it should first be brushed to remove loose particles of varnish, and then cleaned with gasoline to remove all grease, dirt film and chalked pigment. After the top is thoroughly dry and clean the dressing can be applied. Because weathering proceeds rapidly when the top is not protected with wax, most automobile tops should be re-finished at least once a year.

WITH CANOE AND PADDLE ON CANADA'S WATERWAYS

HANGE is the prime essence of a vacation and a canoe trip in Canada is one method by which the stress of daily life can be exchanged for a tranquil, carefree existence. It may be for a limited time only but the effects are felt all the year round. Jostling crowds, rumble of traffic, hot pavements and vitiated air have no place in the life of the canoeist.

A large number of interesting routes are outlined in "Canoe Trips in Canada," a booklet recently issued by the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. Following the routes described therein one can drift lazily along or relive the strenuous days of the voyageur. There are cruises which lead for a hundred miles through canal, stream and lake with alternating civilization and lightly wooded country. There are long, smooth flowing rivers and placid lakes on which one can travel for days, and by contrast rushing streams which ever and again break into foaming rapids and thundering falls. There are adventurous trips through wilderness country along routes once followed by Indian and fur-trader, now almost forgotten so seldom are they travelled. Strange geological formations, wild life, good fishing, the charming and the picturesque await the advent of one's canoe on the numerous and varied water trails of Canada.

Uniform Price System Advocated

Introduction of a uniform price system throughout Canada as a means of distributing whatever benefits result from protective tariffs and of equalizing production costs, was advocated by J. D. McKenna, St. John, N.B., publisher, in a recent submission to the royal commission investigating Nova Scotia's economic situation.

Urging equalization of wholesale prices of all protected goods manufactured in this country, Mr. McKenna contended that Montreal and Toronto, virtually monopolized whatever benefits resulted from protective tariffs. Eighty-five per cent. of manufactured goods came out of Ontario and Quebec, he said, and because costs of the finished articles included all the taxes imposed by governments, provincial and federal, it followed that people of other provinces purchasing those goods, had to "pay not only their own taxes but theirs as well—and that comes to a pile of money."

His scheme to equalize costs and to standardize prices throughout the country, involves absorption by manufacturers of freight charges, a process with which many in Western Canada would be prone to agree. This, Mr. McKenna claimed, would permit manufacturers to place their products on the market at a uniform price—the same in Halifax, Regina and Vancouver as in Toronto and Montreal. Press dispatches note that at the close of his presentation, Mr. McKenna was complimented by Prof. John Harry Jones, of Leeds University, England, who, noted as an economist, is chairman of the commission.

The contentions and proposals of Mr. McKenna are by no means new to Western Canada. Least of all are they new to a certain small group of Saskatchewan economic students which, for two years or more, has quietly been conducting inquiries along similar lines, with a view eventually of sponsoring a plan which might be adopted as a "Western Policy". This group has concentrated its attention upon the price structure, seeking to determine what inequities exist with it, noting more particularly the effects upon it and upon the purchasing power of the prairie provinces of freight, tariff and taxation costs.

The former favorable disparity in wage and salary scales as between Western and Eastern Canada having disappeared under stress of economic conditions, or being noticeable only in reverse, the Saskatchewan group has been seeking something to compensate the loss. Though prices of manufactured goods had fallen, the drop was commensurate with the drop in prices of farm products, and seemed to be determined largely by the reduced purchasing power of consumers in the West. Somewhere within this price structure, it was felt, lay certain factors which, if equalized or removed, would effect much-needed adjustments. Hence came the attack upon prices.

The Saskatchewan group has laid stress on the fact that, while freights and tariffs have increased farmers' production costs, they have received no compensation from manufacturers of consumers' goods, nor have the advantages accruing to the industrialized areas been distributed as it was thought, they should be. From this it was argued that, as consumers, prairie farmers were encouraging a system which tended to centralize industry in the Toronto and Montreal areas, which areas derived direct benefits from local taxes payable by the industries and from circulation of the payrolls of such industries. This system, it was contended, placed the West under toll both at home and in the East.

It was felt, therefore, that, inasmuch as these advantages were accorded the manufacturing areas of the East, there should be some compensatory factor, some method of distributing benefits, to all parts of Canada in the price structure. That is to say, while goods might cost a little more in the area of their manufacture, they would cost a little less in the area of their consumption. And inasmuch as the principle already is applied in the case of nationally-priced products, the proposition at first sight appears fair and just. The West will watch eastern reactions to the proposal made by Mr. McKenna, with considerable interest.

Border Cuts Off Hospital

Free State Board Has To Cross Line To Inspect It

Derry Port sanitary board has just held a remarkable meeting, the members leaving Northern Ireland to go into the Free State to deal with the business for which the meeting was summoned.

The board crossed the border in taxis to inspect its hospital at Ballyrattan, near Mullin, in County Donegal, a hospital which has never had a patient since its opening thirteen years ago. It was built to deal with cases of infectious disease on vessels coming to Derry, but before its completion, the board had been created, with the result that the board was left on one side of the border and the hospital on the other.

No solution of the situation has ever been devised and the board decided to effect repairs to the institution, the chairman remarking that "the present state of affairs cannot go on forever."

Not Very Profitable

Abraham Lincoln Made Very Little From Law Practice

When Abraham Lincoln was elected president of the United States, his bank balance aggregated $601.44. The original ledger showing his account now is on display in the Springfield Marine bank at Springfield, Illinois, where Lincoln was a depositor from March 1, 1853, until his death. His account after his death was continued by his administrator, Judge David Davis, of Bloomington, Ill., being finally closed on May 22, 1867.

The ledger in which his account appears is displayed in a glass and wrought-iron show case. The ledger is turned to a page on which is written in fine script the name "A. Lincoln" and the entries on the page bear out the certainty that his income from the practice of law was meagre at times.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless With Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But "a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again.

"I was sure in a bad state," she writes. "In fact, I could not do my housework. I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands, I could not sleep at nights, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief." (Mrs.) J. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. Other ingredients of these salts assist Nature to expel these dissolving crystals through the natural channel.

Wheat Situation Hopeful

Supply For 1934-35 More Closely Related To Probable Demand

The crop year 1934-35 is commencing with the general wheat situation not without its hopeful aspects, the Dominion bureau of statistics states. The supply of wheat available for the present cereal year has been greatly reduced by virtue of a seasonal succession of crop disasters in the United States, the certainty of a low yield in Canada, a sharp reduction in production in many European countries and the prospects of a small crop in Australia. These developments combine to produce a situation where the available supply of wheat is more closely related to probable demand than at any time in recent years, the bureau said.

According to the United States department of agriculture, production of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rice and flaxseed are expected to be the smallest in 30 years.

Value Of The League

Exerts An Immense Force In The Prevention Of War

There is probably not a single country in Europe where the common people would blindly follow its leaders into war, if called upon to do so. All the nations of the world have in fact formally renounced war as an instrument of national policy; and the machinery of the League of Nations exists for its prevention. It is quite certain that, if war were imminently threatened, or were actually to break out in one quarter, resort would be made to the League, whose power of collective action, even if never yet fully utilized, is potentially immense. Its mere existence has undoubtedly acted as a deterrent at least upon the lesser nations and upon those which are not removed by oceanic distances from Geneva.—London Times.

Experimenting With Dry Ice

Air Cooled Planes Would Facilitate Travel In India

A transportation company in India is experimenting with dry ice, or cold carbon dioxide, as an agent for cooling aeroplanes. If satisfactory results are obtained, planes travelling across that country will be air cooled in future. Should experiments prove successful travel should be facilitated between Calcutta and Bombay, where summer temperatures of 115 degrees are considered normal and 130 degrees is sometimes exceeded.

A Wonderful Operation

Severed Eye Muscle Sewed And Woman's Sight Restored

An operation—one of the most delicate in eye surgery—has restored sight to a Memphis woman. Platinum needles, electrically heated, punctured the eye 20 times in the course of the skilful surgery which regained for Mrs. Westwood Sayre 75 per cent. normal vision.

She lost the sight of one eye in June as she returned to her home from her flower garden. The other eye was not affected. A noted Memphis eye specialist said it was retinal detachment.

Severing a muscle he turned the eyeball inward. Foreign fluid had accumulated behind the retina causing it to bulge toward the centre of the eye. The retina is the curtain on the back of the inside of the eye on which images are focused and nerve sensations are transmitted to the brain. Blindness results if the retina is disturbed.

On the outside and back of the eyeball is a fibro-muscular covering which controls the movements of the eye and keeps the eyeball in shape. From the outer edge of the fibro-muscular coating to the area under the bulging retina was a distance of one-eighth inch. A tiny fraction would be pierced, endangering both sight and loss of vitreous, the jelly-like substance that keeps the eye round.

Twenty platinum needles, each one-eighth of an inch long, each with a silk thread in one end, were placed nearby.

Clamping the first with an instrument which brought electricity to the needle until it was hot, the surgeon inserted the fine point into the small area.

Twenty times the eyeball was pierced. Then slowly he grasped the thread and pulled out each needle. The severed eye muscle was sewed.

For two weeks the patient lived in total darkness, her head braced to prevent movement which might break tiny connections where the needles had seared through the eyeball, allowing one-half teaspoon of fluid to drain off and causing the retina to be gripped when it resumed its normal position.

The retina slowly dropped back into position. The eye healed. Bandages were removed. Light filtered into the retina. Objects became distinct.

Interesting Old Clock

Timepiece Of Catherine The Great To Be Repaired

A 17th Century clock, made by James Keels, an English craftsman, and presented to Catherine the Great by her favorite, Marshall Potemkin, is to be restored, says a Leningrad message. The clock, which is of great artistic value, has not been in working order since 1915. When it is in working order, at noon every day the image of a peacock on the clock stands up and spreads its tail, which is made of gold; a cock, four or five times larger than life-size, starts crowing; and an owl, sitting on a branch above, rings a number of small bells.

Faster Planes Needed

French Air Staff Says Paris Would Be Helpless From Invasion

An invading air fleet will wipe Paris completely off the map unless France gets faster fighting planes, the French air staff believes.

Officials said the four days' aerial manoeuvres, recently held, showed conclusively that the capital cannot, with present effective, be defended against air raiders, and emphasized sharply the urgent need for speedier aircraft.

A force of rebuilt pursuit planes failed to match the speed of heavily loaded bombers, comprising the "attacking fleet," the average speed of which was 140 miles an hour.

Ontario Municipal Debt

Stated Debt Is Largest Of Any Province In Canada

Thomas Bradshaw, president of the North American Life Assurance Company, told the Ontario Municipal Association Ontario's municipal debt in default is the largest of any province in Canada.

Forty municipalities in Ontario, Mr. Bradshaw said, are in default to the extent of $86,640,819 while the nearest approach to that figure is found in Quebec where the defaulting debt is $15,000,000.

"No section of Canada, up to four years ago, has a finer reputation for municipal credit than the province of Ontario," he said. "To-day no section in Canada has a more serious municipal problem on its doorsteps than Ontario."

Moose Is Fast Runner

Proved It By Travelling 35 Miles An Hour

How fast is a moose? Ask Charles Mumford of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. He'll say 35 miles an hour.

While Mumford was motoring home to Yarmouth a young bull moose in the road became frightened by the headlights and started running ahead of the car, maintaining his distance for a time while the machine travelled 35 miles an hour. Coming to a rise, the moose slowed to a 20-mile rate, leaped from the road and became tangled in a barbed wire fence. Mumford and others from the car were able to help the animal escape by shaking the fence.

Switzerland Heads List

Leads All Countries In Annual Consumption Of Milk

Statistics released by the Department of Agriculture show that Switzerland leads all other countries of the world in the annual consumption of milk, with 280 quarts per person.

Second place for this distinction is shared by United States and Germany, each of which boasts of 220 quarts per person. Canada ranks next with 200 quarts.

The figures on other large milk-drinking nations also computed annually and per person, are as follows: Great Britain, 120 quarts; France, 100 quarts; and Chile, 30 quarts.

It Could Be Done

Midland Gardener Used Only Waste Water For Plants

At the Midland Bank Horticultural Society's show it was remarked that the winner of seven prizes exhibited blooms watered entirely with wastewater, bath-water, basin-water; at any rate not fresh tap water, of which he proudly boasted that he had not used a drop in his garden during these months of drought.

It can be done. Therefore it ought to be done—as King Edward was fond of remarking mainly of things that were not done in his time. Do not ask us, please, how to get or convey bath water. Either find out, or don't use any water. A moral maxim for horticulturists.—London Daily Mirror.

Super-Race For Alberta Development of a superior race of people such as has never been known in the world before was pictured as the future of Alberta through the combining of the province's wealth of natural resources and the ideals of the cosmopolitan population which live within its boundaries, by W. CHAPTER I.

"When you tell me that you're going out to Crevasse County to claim your half of the old Hour-glass ranch, I tell you, Mr. Keene, that you're just asking for trouble."

Simon Burwell, first vice-president of the Drovers Bank in Cato, leaned back in his chair, spread his hands tip-to-tip and stared at his visitor. He took him in from head to foot and frankly liked what he saw. Then he studied an open letter on his desk.

"Your uncle was a good friend of mine," he said. "But he was very careless or unwise to make the will he did."

"What do you mean?" Gerald Keene straightened up in his chair and Simon Burwell grinned at him.

"Don't carry a chip on your shoulder, my boy. I'm not criticizing old Peter. Why, boy, I loved him. Your uncle lived many years in the West. He and old Joe Carr were partners for years. It was quite natural that when Peter died he should leave the Hour-glass ranch to his partner, Joe Carr. But when he dragged you in to the matter he only complicated matters. How long since you saw your uncle?"

"I never laid eyes on him in my life," said Keene. "He was my mother's brother and the family was widely separated. I happened to learn of the bequest quite accidentally. I had been . . . in business . . . in the Northwest and I happened to drop in at my old home. There I learned about the will so I got the letter from Judge Frame to you to identify myself. The old judge told me that you have always handled the ranch's business. That's so, isn't it, sir?"

"It has never kept me busy. I'm sorry to say," said Burwell. "There is no business worthy speaking of. You're the half owner of a big ranch that doesn't pay a dollar of dividends . . . and won't. Have you seen your uncle's will?"

Burwell did not wait a reply. He went to a wall safe and came back with a slim document that he read meticulously, accenting every word.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin. Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

If you're not mighty careful, you'll have your head pulled under."

"Huh. Still I don't quite see. If old man Carr is losing money, who pays it out? Where's it comin' from?"

"I've tried to tell you. God help you if you try to keep old Joe Carr's head above water. He'll only drown you both. But you'd better run out there yourself, Mr. Keene, and take a look at things."

"Thanks. I'm going to do exactly that."

As Gerald Keene rose and took his hat, Simon Burwell got a glimpse of gray eyes that narrowed in the glare and of a mouth that was almost straight above a full lower lip. The knowing vice-president grinned a little.

"I think my visitor will go far," he muttered. "I never even asked him what his occupation is. . . . Huh. A man used to selling bonds! He'll not learn much about a ranch. However . . . Old Judge Frame evidently takes an interest in him. . . . And I'm well quit of the business." But he rose and walked to the long window and watched his late caller as he left.

A half-hour later Gerald Keene plunged through the door of a hotel room, slammed the door and gripped the shoulder of a man who was sitting in a chair by the window watching the world spin past between the toes of his boots on the sill.

"Shut it," he said, "we're in a mess right up to our hocks. I swear I don't see any answer to it. . . . His lean face lit and his eyes twinkled. There are eyes that gleam and eyes that twinkle. These twinkled. There is a difference. One has humor; the other has none. Stone studied his friend for a brief moment.

"Shut it," he said.

"Well, I gave old man Burwell my letter of introduction and he told me all he knew about the Hour-glass ranch. It seems that by my uncle's will half the ranch is mine; the other half belongs to his old partner, Joe Carr. He lives on the Hour-glass with his daughter and has made a fat failure of it. If either of us dies, the other gets the entire ranch. . . ."

"What could he tell you about your uncle?" demanded Stone.

"Very little; only that he was a lovely old fellow and that he was mighty fond of Carr. Oh! He told me, too, that two men, Dustin and Goddard, in the past few years have bought up a lot of 'scrip' and started a ranch next to the Hour-glass. They call it the Broken Spur. Burwell says old man Carr drinks a bit and is convinced that Dustin and Goddard have been systematically looting the Hour-glass for years. Too bad about old man Carr's drinkin', isn't it?"

"It sure is. You can reform anybody but a systematic drinker. Go on."

"That's all. Burwell said there's a regular feud between the two ranches that reached the status of a Civil War on pay-days. I reckon old man Carr's been shootin' off his mouth too much after a drinkin' spell. You know how it is. They say a lot more'n they ever started to say. Could you find out anything?"

"A little. While you were over at the bank I hunted up a man I know. You see, I used to work for the Lazy M in Nebraska. They were a member of the Stock-raisers Association an' that's a lucky bet in a cattle country. Just because Nebraska went crazy over Free Silver's no reason her people shouldn't be sane in spots. Old Ben Lyon, who used to be their attorney, is a practitioner here now. I saw his shingle. I went to see him while you were with him. . . ."

"Well . . . go on . . ."

Stone thoughtfully rolled a cigarette and went on as though talking to himself.

"Ben says he's known Joe Carr since he was a pup. He says that, drunk or sober, old Carr is as straight as a liar but that for some years he's been up against hard luck. Just plain up against it. About three years ago a pony slammed him against a buckin'-post in a corral and busted him out of his right leg. That's when he began to drink. I reckon. It busted him up a good deal. Not enough to keep him from ridin', but enough to make him a poor bet on a ranch that needs two good eyes. He's got a fine manager in one Frank Crews, but they just can't make both ends meet."

The Alberta horse crop of 1933 was almost twice as large as that of 1932 and was readily marketed at increased prices. As a result, owners of commercial aparies in the southern part of the province report a fairly satisfactory year.

The American flag of 15 stars and 13 stripes was in official use for 23 years, from 1795 to 1818.

Carried Out Old Idea

Peter The Great First Thought Of

Huge Russian Canal

Praise to whom praise is due—and most assuredly praise is due to the Russian engineer, Serge Xyk, entrusted by the Soviet government with the gigantic task of linking the Baltic and the White sea by means of a canal, said to be the biggest in the world. It was in December, 1931, that operations started under the most discouraging conditions. To begin with, an efficient staff had to be trained, recruited for the most part from young graduates with little else but enthusiasm for their equipment. Then there were the natural obstacles—floods, intense cold, difficulties of supplying the necessary building materials, food for the workers, etc. On top of this there were no skilled craftsmen to be found in the locality and a totally insufficient number of unskilled workmen. Not the least remarkable of Xyk's achievements is the method by which convicts, to the number of about ten thousand, were converted into willing workers by promises of freedom if they faithfully performed their duties for the benefit of the country. Many inspiring tales are told of the changing of hardened criminals to self-respecting patriots, who labored with a will to get the job completed on time—it was finished in nineteen months.

It is said that Peter the Great had such a canal in mind when he transferred the capital from Moscow to St. Petersburg. His idea was to utilize the two great lakes, Onega and Ladoga, for the purpose and this has now been done. On the Onega-White sea section sixteen dams had to be built, with 33 annex canals, 22 discharge basins, 19 locks, of which 13 had to be constructed in hard rock over a hundred feet below sea level; while millions of cubic yards of rock had to be blasted and removed, and a million and a half trees were cut down and carted away.

Little Helps For This Week

"I have called upon Thee for Thou wilt hear me O God; incline Thine ear unto me and hear my speech." Psalm 16:6.

"Ye people pour out your heart before Him: God is a refuge for us." Psalm 42:8.

Whatever the care that breaks they rest, Whatever the wish that swells thy breast; Spread before God that wish, that care, And change anxiety to prayer.

Trouble and perplexity drive us to prayer, and prayer driveth away trouble and perplexity.

Whatever it is that preseth thee, go tell to thy Father, put the matter into His hand and 'so shalt thou be freed from the dividing, perplexing care the world is full of. When thou art either to do or suffer anything go tell God about it, acquaint Him with it, yea burden Him with thy trouble, and thou hast done with caring. No more care, but quiet sweet diligence in thy duty and dependence on Him for the carrying of thy matters. Roll thyself and thy cares as one burden on thy God.—R. Leighton.

The rain has again delayed threshing operations. Oh well, it's an ill wind that blows nobody good; some of the soft water cisterns in town were dry, or nearly so.

We sincerely wish her a complete recovery.

The town well is quite a problem these days. We have difficulty in getting water. By all means the cistern should be kept full of water, and not empty, otherwise what will be the condition of things in case of fire. If the cistern must be kept locked, those who are willing to pay for water should have the privilege to obtain the water they need at the appointed time for the cistern to be unlocked. Let us have a definite arrangement and stand by the same. We cannot expect any man to attend to the well free gratis. He must be paid for his work before we can demand efficient service.
